

“Do all the good you can. By all the means you can. In all the ways you can. In all the places you can. At all the times you can. To all the people you can. As long as ever you can.” - John Wesley

John Wesley’s quote is one of the many things that our teachers say to inspire and encourage us. My school is unbelievably wonderful and special. Without ACE, I would not be at the school I love, having many amazing opportunities. Thus, the ACE scholarship has impacted my life. All of my teachers are compassionate, kindhearted, and care so much about our education. They go over the top trying to figure out ways to teach things so that school is entertaining, exciting, yet still informational.

My favorite teacher, and the teacher that is most intense and energetic towards our education, is my English teacher. She is a marvelous writer and instructs us not only in our own writing, but also in grammar, spelling, and vocabulary. She desires organization and hard work. She encourages us to work ahead of the schedule. She pushes us to go farther than the bare minimum. She expects excellence from my class and always is pushing us to the next level. She wants us to do our best to honor the Lord.

She teaches us many things that will be helpful not only in future classes but also in life. She taught us how to write a research paper, of which we will be doing many in the future. She teaches us many spelling patterns and vocabulary words that could be on scholarship tests for college. She invents many rhythms that she puts with words to help things stick. She does practice tests with us so we will be ready for SAT testing. She has us do corrections on previous papers so that we learn from our mistakes. We take notes on challenging books so we can learn to find and summarize key ideas. These are just a small portion of the many things she has us do to get ready for high school and even college.

These things she has taught us are helpful life skills. I will know how to write a research paper. I will know how to spell difficult words. I will be able to use grammar in the correct way. I will be ready for SAT tests, and I will know not to make the same mistakes again. I will remember different sayings because of the rhythm and clapping we did with them. I will be a highly advanced writer, all because of my English teacher and the hard work she does to help us.

Because of ACE scholarships and their generosity, I have an incredible school, awesome education, and a superb teacher. Because of a superb English teacher, I learn proper English, and because of proper English, I will be prepared for many things to come, whether in college, high school, or even in the job I will get as an adult.
